OBJECT DESCRIPTION

Cylindrical copper cup with handle. There are two strips of embossed patterns on the exterior of the cup. The top register has the repeated image of an oval (perhaps a fruit or loaf of bread?) with a sheath of wheat behind it. The bottom register has two small stacked ovals; this pattern is strung together by a curved line that serves as the base line of the register.

ORIGIN

This item was previously owned by Helen Gravenites.

This cup is so small that it may have been decorative or perhaps used for coffee or tea.
